THE OLD UNIVERSITY

A GROUP OF PUBLIC - SPIRITED CITIZENS, motivated by the desire to establish a non-sectarian and co educational institution of higher liberal, professional, and technical training in the metropolitan area, created a Board of Trustees in the summer of 1908 and caused it to be incorporated as the University of Omaha in the fall of that same year. Public approval was so aroused that the University immediately purchased a tract of land known as the Redick Reserve in North Omaha; Mrs. M. O. Maul donated the John Jacobs Memorial Gymnasium in remembrance of her son; and Mr. George A. Joslyn erected Joslyn Hall. In these two large buildings a Collegiate department was established with a well-rounded curriculum. The success of the enterprise vindicated the hopes and aims of its promoters, until now more than fifteen hundred students are enrolled in its regular, extension, and summer sessions.

The demands upon the university made during the 1920's by eager students and the necessary standards of education involved such a financial burden that those interested in the institution and its continued value in the community conceived that its perpetuity must be made possible through the organization of a Municipal University, financed from public funds. To that end, the legislature of Nebraska passed a bill in 1928 authorizing cities of the metropolitan class to vote on the question of the establishment and maintenance of municipal universities, and the people of Omaha, on May 6 of that year, levied a one-mill tax for the support and development of the Municipal University of Omaha.

Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins was the able leader of the University for the first eighteen years, ending in 1926. Then followed Dr. Karl F. Wettstone and Mr. Earnest W. Emery in the presidency. During the year immediately preceding the opening of the new municipal school, the University of Omaha was administered by Dr. W. Gilbert James; then the late Dr. William E. Sealock was called to the presidency from the University of Nebraska.

After the municipalization of the University of Omaha, the late Dr. Sealock, with exceeding courage, initiated a new plan of instruction and did much to add to the University's prestige. Some thirty new instructors were added to the faculty, and over 22,000 volumes were added to the library. But Dr. Sealock's greatest dream, that of a new spacious campus for the university in a quiet neighborhood, was not realized when he died in the summer of 1935.

THE NEW UNIVERSITY

BUT DR. SEALOCK'S DREAM has finally come true. The able Board of Regents long since realized that the ever-increasing enrollment necessitated more adequate facilities for a greater Municipal University. Accordingly, the first action of the Board was the choice of a new president who had the leadership qualities to obtain the University's needs. Mr. Rowland Haynes was chosen to succeed the late Dr. Sealock. Mr. Haynes had long been associated with schools, and his education and experience were broad. After doing extensive graduate work in sociology at several New England universities he had taught psychology at the Universities of Chicago and Minnesota. He later went into social work, becoming secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Then he held executive positions in recreational and welfare work in New York City, Milwaukee, and Cleveland. And prior to his acceptance of the presidency of the University, he had been State Director of Federal Relief for Nebraska.

Then a year later, in October of 1936, the second step of the Board was the purchase of a site of twenty acres for the new University on Dodge Street in west Omaha adjacent to Elmwood Park. This tract was chosen because it was more centrally located than the other two dozen and more considered. About the same time the financial aid of almost a half million dollars was received from the Public Works Administration to assist in the building program. This fund was to be matched by the University.

The new president has been very energetic and forward-looking in his plans for an extensive building program covering a ten-year period. Total expenditures, to be made on a pay-as-you-go basis, will amount to nearly one million dollars. The work of grading was begun early in January of this year. The first building on the campus will be Georgian in style; the structure will be in the shape of an H, and will be dominated in front by huge pillars, three stories in height. Situated on the highest point of the new West Dodge Street campus, the building will face Dodge Street, and the ground will be sloped and landscaped to the north, east, and south. This first building will provide the minimum essentials for more than one thousands students; more buildings will be added later.

Constructed with the aid of the Public Works Administration funds, the building will cost over six hundred thousand dollars. The design was completed after consultation with Paul Cret, internationally recognized architect. John Latenser & Sons are the local supervising architects. The PWA contract calls for completion of the structure by January 1, 1938, and officials plans its occupancy by the beginning of the second semester next February. Science laboratories will occupy upper floors of the main section, temporary library stack rooms will be in the basement, and offices and classrooms in the wings. A combined recreation room and auditorium will be in the center of the building.

FACULTY

When we think on your nobility,
Your intellectual gravity,
We seem presumptuous when we dare
To define that gracious air
Of friendly interest, kind and brief,
That makes you even more our chief.
May we strive onward, head on high,
Until we meet you eye to eye.

IN MEMORIAM

THIS YEAR, Omaha University has gained much. In our endeavor toward higher learning we feel that we have progressed far on the road to success. We have, however, sustained a loss which we shall not forget in the death of Albert M. Johnson, member of our faculty. In his career here and elsewhere he has done much not only to foster interest in creative writing, but to foster interest in living itself. He emphasized not the broad setting for life, but that which is about us in our everyday environment.

In his sincere devotion to beauty in writing, he offered us encouragement; in his thoughtful criticism of the hastily formed concept, he offered help. We, who were his students, miss his quiet presence in these halls and shall continue to miss him in our newer setting. It seems ever more tragic to think that he has gone when we are approaching more closely the heights of our achievement. As Omaha University goes on, it shall not forget him. We, the students of today, pay tribute to his memory.

IN THE RECENT DEATH of Nell Griscom Gillard, Omaha University has lost a valued friend. In her long association with the university, Mrs. Gillard did much to uphold high standards and ideals, nor were her services ostentatious. A great many students have benefited by her gracious help and have been asked to say nothing about it. In little ways she endeared herself to many of us, and we regret sincerely that we can give no more thanks than this small token.

Not only was Mrs. Gillard admired in the university, but she was recognized highly by outside groups for her outstanding musical achievements. We cannot say too much about her; but being faced with the danger of saying too little, we can only conclude that in the death of this lovely woman, Omaha University has lost a well-loved friend.

EXTENSION

DIRECTOR OF EXTENSION

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Everett M. Hosman, the Extension Division of the University has increased its enrollment to 910 students, exceeding that of any year since its beginning in 1931. Attracting a diversified student body with a wide variation of courses, this department has proved its value as an important part of the university.

Adult education is the chief function of this division. Its student body is composed of people from all walks of life. Professional men and women, shop girls, business men, and housewives find courses which are of value to them. Some students come with the aim of obtaining a higher degree, others for the sake of increasing their practical knowledge of a certain subject, and still others come to satisfy their cultural needs.

The purpose of the extension division is to make all courses available to as large a number as possible. In order that this aim may be realized, classes meet at convenient places in the city as well as on the campus. Several students are enrolled in correspondence courses.

Proving the existence of a growing enthusiasm in this group, a student council has been elected to sponsor student activities among extension students. Dr. C. F. Banton fills the office of president, and the offices of vice-president and secretary-treasurer are filled by Pauline Hanicke and Rosalie Boline.

Social events include a dinner in the fall and a party in the spring. A reception for new students takes place the first week of school in the main corridor at Joslyn Hall.

The newest project of the Extension division was the opening of an art center at a downtown location. These studios with their model stands, screens, plaster casts, and still-life charcoal sketchings have attracted many persons engaged in art, architecture, and commercial art work.

WORK STUDY

J. E. WOODS

DIRECTOR OF WORK STUDY

IN THE SUMMER OF 1936, the Work Study plan was put into operation under the direction of J. E. Woods. This plan originated at the University of Cincinnati and was later adopted by several other institutions, the most notable of which is Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Under the plan, two students are assigned to each job made available by cooperating employers. One of these students works on the job while the other attends school. At regular intervals they exchange places; thus the job is continuously filled, and each of the two students gets practical training in conjunction with his more theoretical college work.

The student on the job is paid a regular salary by his employer. This proves a very definite financial aid in helping students through college.

WILLIAM CRAMER

MARYANN HARRINGTON

A savings account system has been set up whereby each student on the Work Study plan deposits part of his weekly wage with the bursar in a savings account. Upon his return to school, this money may be withdrawn and used for carfare, tuition, books, lunches, and other expenses pertaining to school work.

Roger Hughes, the first Work Study student to be placed on a job, went to work for the United States National Bank as a messenger and mail clerk, May 20. He remained on the job until January 23, 1937, when he returned to school. Robert White took his place at the bank.

During the first year of operation, thirty-seven students were assigned to some twenty-five jobs. These jobs have varied from bank messenger to mangle operator in a laundry, from newspaper reporters to electrical repair men. Four of the Work Study students are teaching in the Omaha Public School system. Practically all of the Work Study students have done well on their jobs. Many of them have received increases in pay and in many cases the employer has indicated his desire to employ the student permanently after the student has graduated from the university.

This plan has helped students financially, but its chief value has been in contacts offered to students with workers and executives in business, industrial, and professional fields. The plan provides an excellent opportunity to combine practical work with theoretical training.

Students returning to school after six months on a job show a new interest in their school work and a much more definite idea as to what they want college to do for them. They have, in most cases, set aside money enough to take care of their expenses during the period of school work at the university, which makes it unnecessary for them to do part-time work that has a tendency to interfere with their classroom studies and desirable extra-curricular activities.

SENIOR CLASS

TO THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1937 goes much of the credit for the new school. Throughout the period in which we worked to get our site, this group served as leaders and promoters in all our plans.

Members of the class have participated in every campus activity. Harold Johnk, Tippy Tyler, Norman Sorenson, Frank Crawford, Loren Gammon, and John Kozak have been the group leaders in the athletic field. Amy Rohacek and Bess Shoecraft have made their mark in school dramatics, and Evelyn Betterton has helped paint their way to fame.

Betty Majors headed the Student Council with John Kozak, Joe Barker, Bess Shoecraft, and Harold Johnk to help her. Amy Rohacek led all cheering at athletic events, and with Betty Majors and Bess Shoecraft was one of the most ardent supporters of the new site.

Amy Rohacek, Ellen Hartman, Harold Johnk, and Betty Majors were elected to Who's Who on America's campuses. Ellen Hartman served as editor of both the Gateway and the Tomahawk.

The traditional senior day featuring a senior assembly and a holiday climaxed by the Junior-Senior Banquet at Hotel Fontenelle, as well as the Baccalaureate and Commencement, finished off their four memorable years.

In summing up this last swift year,

JUNIOR CLASS

AND THE JUNIOR CLASS . . . as progressive a group of All-Americans as an underclassman ever eyed in awe. Their attendance roll includes Ruth Grenville, editor of the Tomahawk, and Kathryn Davis, president of the Pan-Hellenic Council.

The class also flies its flags on the football and basketball teams, represented by such stars as Melvin Boldenow, Royce Brown, Robert Flesher, Russell Riggins, and Dale Wolf.

Perhaps the most outstanding-in-every-way member of the class of '38 is Macy Baum. Macy, who was one of the strongest supporters of the new campus, presented the students' viewpoint at the City Council meeting that turned the tables in Omaha University's direction. During his sophomore year, Macy acted as business manager of the Gateway, and this year finds him filling a Work-Study position at the Bee-News office. He is also one of the members of the university debate team that advanced to the finals in the recent state tournament.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

THIS CLASS IS CONDEMNED to a name that is synonymous with the best and the worst of the college types. Sophomore, the picture of pseudo-sophistication created by the name, is belied by this class. They, the sophomore class, have maintained throughout the year an active interest in school politics and elections. Their representatives in football, basketball, and intramural sports include Bill Middlekauff, George Threadgill, Bill Kulper, Gail Leber, Leonard Kurtz, Frank Spangler, Sam Veneziano, Jack Pike, and Jack Jackson. The class is more than proud of Ruth Behrmann's distinction, the second girl to be appointed editor of the Gateway.

Gertrude Johnson, Myrtle Jorgensen, and Jack Pike have displayed exceptional histrionic ability in their work with the university dramatic players. Kenneth Scholes, winner of honorable mention in a state-wide poetry contest sponsored by Sigma Tau Delta, was voted "best scholar" in the Tomahawk "best" competition. Frank Spangler, president of the "s. a." club, was elected campus sweetheart at the W.A.A. "Sweetheart Swing," and "most popular boy" in the Tomahawk contest. Mary Jane Davisson, associate editor of the Gateway, "Says When" each week in the same publication.

FRESHMAN CLASS

THEY USED TO BE GREEN AND CALLOW, frightened by it all. Now there is a suspicion around that the freshmen merely tolerate the upperclassmen. Anyway, the class of '40 is, to put it in the vernacular, more-than-adequate. They have entered into college life with a great deal of ease — and embryo All-American lineups, efficiency experts, names-in-the-news, and downright scholars form the nucleus of this, the Freshman class of '36-'37.

Maurice Klain and Enid Crowder have participated in the successful university debate season. Marjorie Disbrow, who conducts the "Betty Coed" column in the Sunday Omaha Bee-News, served as assistant editor of the Tomahawk. Joe Mazzeri, Arthur Milow, Tony Milone, Don Grote, Paul Gear, and Ted Farner were outstanding in collegiate athletics. Kurt Sick and Maurice Klain, both associate editors of the Gateway, had the following members of their class as aides: Cecelia Hopp, Virginia Phelps, Harriet Betterton, Frank Norall, Stuart Jones, George Unruh, and Marjorie Disbrow.

COACHING STAFF

HARTMAN

PEAREY

HEADED BY COACH SED HARTMAN, Omaha University is fortunate in having one of the outstanding coaching staffs in the North Central Conference. Besides Hartman, this group includes John Baker, Warren Howard, and Leo Pearey. Hartman graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1924, coached at Cotner College until 1931, and since then he has been head coach here. In 1935, Hartman's main move was to join the North Central Conference, and though there is a lack of material, his teams have made a strong bid in this new conference.

John Baker, assistant football coach and head basketball coach, graduated from the University of California, where he was unanimously chosen All-American in 1932. He coached for two years at Iowa State Teachers, and from there came here. Leo Pearey played four years at the University of Omaha before becoming freshman coach along with Warren Howard, who has been here since 1929.

FOOTBALL SQUAD

AFTER A SUCCESSFUL SPRING PRACTICE, the Cardinal coaches looked forward to a promising season in the fall of '36. The fine record left by the 1935 team was a good prediction that they were ready to match their skill with all other North Central teams.

Coach Hartman realized that his squad would be unusually small. In order not to overwork his handful, and to guard against injuries, he scheduled only seven games, four at home and three on foreign lots.

The first headache suffered by the Cardinal coaches was the scarcity of backs. There were only six, one being Melvin Boldenow, who was confined in a hospital with an infected arm and was not available until the season was half over. Johnny Baker's job was to fill the three holes in the line left by Tackle Howard Sorenson, Guard Noel King, and the transferring of Boldenow to the back-field. Russell Riggins, a hard-fighting guard, was at once made regular, as were Frank La Mantia at tackle and Ed Kersenbrock at end.

The Cards broke about even when the curtain fell on the uneventful season, winning two, tying two, and losing three games. The injury jinx was absent from the Redbird camp for several weeks, but when it struck the Cards, they were handicapped to the finish. Brown, Tyler, and Kulper were regular patients of Dr. Ed Thompson, who treated them for body bruises.

NORTH DAKOTA STATE — After a mere three weeks of hard, sweating, early September practice, the Cards journeyed to the north-land to engage in a night game with North Dakota State. It was a long journey, but the Redbirds took to the field in good spirits and played good ball until the middle of the second quarter. It was then that the Bisons tore through the heavy Omaha line for several long gains and finally scored from the three-yard line.

The Cards settled down, and within a few moments following the Bisons' scoring attack, Tippy Tyler made a beautiful 50-yard run along the sideline on a returned punt. Brown opened up with a passing attack, with Tyler and Kersenbrock snagging the ball, placing it in a position for Tippy to score. Brown's toe gave the Cards a one point lead at the half. During the second half the Bisons again rammed the Cardinal line for two successive counters to regain their early lead, pushing ahead 18 to 7.

The timer was beginning to grip his gun, and Brown again filled the air with passes, finding Kersenbrock waiting in the end zone to catch a perfect spiral with one hand as the game ended, Bisons 18, Cards 13.

MORNINGSIDE — The Cards had their first taste of victory when they romped over the Morningside Maroons, 13 to 0, in their second night game of the season, played in Sioux City.

The Omahans started the fireworks with Willie Kulper and Royce Brown piling up gains through the line and around the ends, moving the oval to the Maroon 36-yard line. Tyler was next to carry the pigskin, and with a fancy bit of footwork, he knifed through tackle, side-stepped the secondary, and scored standing up.

The second tally came late in the fourth quarter when Brown rifled a long pass to Tyler, standing on the Maroon 2-yard line. Brown's kick was good this time, and it was a game for the happy kids from Omaha. It was a big day in the line for Sorenson, Kersenbrock, Johnk, and Riggins.

WAYNE — The Wayne game has always been referred to as the "jinx game"; but this year the Red and Black gridders won by a mere 12 to 0 score. The boys from Wayne made things gloomy for the Omahans, who time after time waded through the Wildcat line only to be halted at the goal line.

With the fine blocking of Brown and Kulper, Tyler managed to break into the open with nothing to stop him as he scored twice in the same manner. Boldenow, Gardner, and La Mantia took the spotlight for their fine defense.

SOUTH DAKOTA STATE — On homecoming we found many familiar faces among the grads who returned to see their Alma Mater meet South Dakota State. The Cards entered the game as favorites, but the Jackrabbits turned the tables during the first half, threatening several times only to fail by inches. It was all the Cards could do to hold their own until half-time.

It was vice versa after the intermission, and the Cards came back with renewed spirits to drive the Jacks back to their goal repeatedly, but with no scoring results. Twice Brown's field-kicks missed by inches, and the homecomers had to be content with a scoreless tie, but enjoyed a hard-fought game.

DE PAUL UNIVERSITY — It was a long gloomy afternoon for the Omaha kids at Wrigley Field, Chicago, where they were pitted against the powerful Blue Demons of DePaul University.

The so-called charity game yielded no charity for the small squad of twenty players from Omaha, as De Paul poured it on, scoring 46 points in the first three periods. The Cards tried everything in the books, but the heavy Chicago eleven had an overflow of fresh men who checked every move of the Omahans to hold them scoreless.

TOMAHAWK ≈ '37

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH DAKOTA — Working hard to avenge the De Paul loss, the Cards were slated to make a comeback against the beefy South Dakota Coyotes. During most of the cold, sleeting afternoon the Cards were on the defensive, as the Coyotes rushed through the Omaha line at will.

The Cards failed to click on any play they called; their passes went wild; they were stopped at the line; and their trick plays were smeared for losses. It was an off-day for the Redbirds as the Coyotes handed them the third loss of the season, 19 to 0.

IOWA STATE TEACHERS — Still determined to make a comeback, the Cards started against the Teachers of Cedar Falls, Iowa, in the best of spirits; but they were stunned when the Iowans made an unexpected touchdown less than three minutes following the opening kickoff.

This was as far as the Teachers got, for the Cards found themselves again and pushed the Panthers all over the lot the rest of the day. The Cards played the best game of the season against the Teachers, but the best they could do in the way of scoring was to tie the Iowans' early score and to call it a moral victory. This contest climaxed the collegiate careers of Johnk, Sorenson, Tyler, Crawford, and Gammon.

BASKETBALL SQUAD

TAPPING THEIR RESERVOIR of latent energies, an inspired Omaha University basketball squad sprang a surprise victory over the highly touted Morningside quintet, 29 to 27, to climax a rather drab season for the Cardinals in the strong North Central Conference. Although marked as the underdogs, the Cards kept their spirits up by looking forward to their game with the Maroons. When the moment arrived the noted feud grew stronger than ever before and the fans knew that a battle royal was in store for them; and when the closing whistle was blown the score stood at 25-all. It took an extra period to decide this memorable game. The loss to the Redbirds cost Morningside the championship of the conference, losing them a tie for high honors with North Dakota University. The win helped to raise Omaha's stock in the new league.

Winning four games out of eleven, the Cardinals finished in the cellar of the conference, with Morningside their lone victory. However, they flashed power in three non-conference tussles to defeat the Haskell Indians, 27 to 22; Kearney Teachers, 39 to 36; and Yankton, 37 to 26.

Close contests at the start of the season were lost to Wayne and Iowa Teachers. The Cards could not match the strides of the powerful

North Dakota and South Dakota teams, but they never stopped fighting, and the Redbirds were soon known as the toughest team in the conference.

Credit is due our coach, John Baker, for his efforts in building a durable team from such a small quantity of material.

Basketball is a new sport for Baker, never having participated during his collegiate career, but his encouragement and fighting spirit helped to carry his team along without becoming discouraged.

Hampered by inadequate facilities for playing home games, Head Coach Johnny Baker did remarkably well to whip together a good varsity quintet.

As a whole, Baker's boys were stronger than their scores indicated, their floor work was very good and their passing was accurate, but they lacked the scoring eye and several of their points were lost by faulty free throws.

Center Harold Johnk and Forwards Perkins, Kozak, and Baade have played their last game in intercollegiate competition and will give up their basketball togs to the yearlings, who will endeavor to fill their shoes. Lettermen Brown, Jackson, Kersenbrock, Wolf, and Boldenow will return next year. Along with these five dependable vets, Baker will count on several promising frosh who made their debuts in the preliminary contests held prior to the home games.

By virtue of the splendid showing against Morningside, the outlook for the coming season is better than just bright, and loyal Cardinals will well remember to place their faith and fate along with the Redbird hoopsters.

TRACK SQUAD

TRACK BEING A LATE SPRING SPORT, the results of the various meets held were not known until after the Tomahawk was published. Last season the Cards were represented at the Hastings, Drake, and Dakota relays, the Wayne invitational meet, and the North Central conference meet held at Brookings, South Dakota. The Dakota meet was the scene of the Redbirds' most impressive work, but they were nosed out to take third place.

The squad includes Tyler, Brown, H. Sorenson, Olson, Johnk, Flesher, Strohbehn, and Pearey. Tyler became co-holder of the North Central high hurdle record when he cleared the sticks in 15 flat.

This year Coach Sed Hartman entered the Hastings relays, April 10; the Kansas relays, April 16 and 17; the Drake relays, April 23 and 24; Sioux Falls invitational, April 30 and May 1, and the North Central Conference meet, May 21 and 22, at Fargo, North Dakota.

FRESHMAN SPORTS

CANNON FODDER is a well-known expression for freshman footballers in pigskin circles, and the 1936 Cardinal squad furnished no exceptions to the varsity slogan. Coach Leo Pearey's husky yearlings were obstinate and insisted on turning the tables against the Redshirts time and again, which rendered the first year men potential varsity material.

Starting the season with nearly 40 aspirants, the squad dwindled to one strong lineup which held together tolerably well all season, and enabled the Omaha frosh to whip the Carter Lake CCC Camp, 21 to 0, and Morningside freshmen, 15 to 7. The nucleus of the frosh were Gaer, Grote, Milone, and Saunders, backs; and Mazzeri, Kritner, Bachman, Doherty, Schmeckpepper, Farner, Hixon, Wolf, and Dresher.

Coached by Leo Pearey, who was assisted by Warren Howard, the frosh finished the 1936 season with no serious casualties and were distinguished as one of the best freshman squads ever assembled at the University of Omaha.

Coach Hartman will depend on these talented Omaha and outstate high school stars to fill the vacancies left by graduating seniors on the Cardinal 1936 football squad.

DISPLAYING CONSIDERABLE PUNCH in victories over the American Business College and the Dundee Presbyterian Senior team, the Omaha University freshman basketball squad, coached by Leo Pearey, rounded out a favorable 1936-37 season, much to the satisfaction of Head Coach Johnny Baker, whose prospects for the varsity will be boosted considerably by the promising yearling cagers.

The squad was built around Saunders, Mazzeri, Grote, Bachman, Milow, Cheek, Mackey, Cooper, and Langstrom, who engaged in five preliminary tussles and journeyed to Sioux City to play Morningside in a close 31-30 loss. The five preliminary games included two wins, while the frosh yielded to Hebron Junior College varsity, Morningside at Omaha, and Treynor, Iowa, in close, spectacular contests.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

BASKETBALL, BOXING, WRESTLING, mixed volleyball, softball, golf, and tennis made up the rapidly growing intramural program during the past two semesters under the direction of Coaches Hartman and Baker, assisted by Robert Huffman. These contests were offered to enable every boy on the campus to be active in some form of competitive activity. The attitude shown toward this program assured the athletic department of a permanent schedule of such sports in the future.

The popular basketball tourney was made up of four teams, the Phi Sigs, Thetas, Alpha Sigs, and the Barbs; with the Phi Sigs crowned champs, winning three out of four games. Kurtz, Veneziano, Barker, Medlock, Claudius, Lanning, Leber, and Howe represented the winners.

Boxing and wrestling were introduced this year, and both were fairly successful in arousing new interests among the sport-loving fans. Champs of the first swinging contest were Hank Medlock, Warren Sieg, Bob Sloan, Ralph Schmeckpepper, and Bob Putman.

Tennis, golf, and softball entries were not received until after the Tomahawk had gone to press; however, the winners of the first two sports mentioned were to compete in the conference tournaments May 21 and 22 at Fargo, North Dakota.

The softball teams were represented by the three fraternities, the Barbs, and a "Poverty Flat" team. The best of these was to challenge a team from some other North Central school.

Mixed volleyball was sponsored by Miss Maurine Kelly and proved to be unusually popular during the noon hours. The teams were made up of three boys and three girls.

GREEKS

Too often does the mere word "Greek"
Indicate that we might seek

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Minteer, Davis, Kurtz, Ashwood, Williams
Anderson, Fore, Silverman, Maxwell

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

THE PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL is made up of one delegate and an alternate from each fraternity and sorority on the campus. This group of Greeks regulates all of the dances, rushing, and other activities of the Greek organizations, and at the same time endeavors to promote good will among its respective groups and help create school spirit and support for the activities of the university.

Last fall the Pan-Hellenic Council approved the pledging of one hundred and twenty-seven students, following a week-end of gay and amusing parties. The Council also maintains scholastic standards which must be met if one wishes to become an active member of one of the Greek groups. Dean L. M. Bradfield and Dean Rene E. Stevens act as sponsors for this group.

The Council opens and closes the dancing season at the university. This year the fall dance of the Council was given at Peony Park, October 10, and was a signal for the various pledge groups to follow in like manner. The spring dance was also given at Peony Park, April 30, at which time the Council presented the Greek ideal boy and girl as a fitting climax to the dancing season.

ALPHA GAMMA CHI

ALPHA GAMMA CHI, the youngest sorority on the campus, was started in the fall of 1933. The Pan-Hellenic Council officially accepted this organization on May 21, 1934. The colors are red and white. A white and red carnation are the flowers of this sorority. The pledge pin is a gold "A."

Members of this sorority have been prominent in scholastic achievement and in extra-curricular activities. Hannah Baum and Celia Lipsman hold four-year scholarships. The first semester Pauline Rosenbaum received seventeen hours of "A." Esther Silverman took an active part in play production. She was also the candidate for Homecoming Princess. Florence and Esther Steinberg belong to the honorary musical society, Kappa Mu Lambda. Adeline Speckter was a member of the Gateway staff. The Feathers are Ellabelle Korney, Esther Silverman, and Fannie Witkin.

The pledges opened the pledge dance season with "The Circus Swing" on October 24. The spring formal was given April 4, at the Fontenelle Hotel.

ALPHA SIGMA LAMBDA

THE ALPHA SIGMA LAMBDA fraternity was founded on October 13, 1919. The colors of this organization are red and black and the flower is the American Beauty rose. The pledge pin is the same as the guard of the badge, a lamp.

This organization is very interested in the general level of scholarship among the other Greeks on the campus. The members donated a cup to the Pan-Hellenic Council to be awarded to the organization having the highest scholarship average during the year. They also have a cup that is awarded to the freshman who has the highest scholastic record in their fraternity.

The members take an active part in outside activities, such as Boy Scout leadership and Y.M.C.A. work. In Alpha Phi Omega, Elbert Hoisington is president, George Alexander is secretary, and Edward Carlson is treasurer. Keith Maxwell is the business manager of the Gateway. He was also a candidate for the "Campus Sweetheart" of the "Sweetheart Swing" given by the W.A.A. This fraternity is interested in all intramural sports and was the first to have regular suits for its basketball team.

The annual pledge dance was held at Birchwood Club on November 20. On April 3, their spring formal dinner dance was held at the Fontenelle Hotel.

PHI SIGMA PHI

THE PHI SIGMA PHI fraternity is the oldest Greek organization on the campus. It was founded in 1910. The colors of the fraternity are purple and gold. The pledge pin is a triangle, half gold and half purple.

The members are active in all sports. First place in the intramural basketball tournament went to them through the efforts of their players, Joe Barker, Gail Leber, Sam Veneziano, Gerald Claudius, Edgar Howe, Leonard Kurtz, Bob Landstrom, Wallace Linn, and Henry Medlock. Joseph Barker is the senior representative on the Student Council and Edgar Howe is the junior representative. Edgar Howe was also the editor of the Student Directory. Leonard Kurtz is president of the sophomore class and was candidate for "sweetheart" at the W.A.A. "Sweetheart Swing" and is Pan-Hellenic Council representative. Harold Sorenson is sophomore representative on the Ma-ie Day Council.

Phi Sigma Phi News, a fraternity paper, is issued semi-annually by Bill Foshier, Gerald Claudius, and Joe Downey.

The annual pledge dance was given at Birchwood Club November 4. The fraternity's annual "Sweetheart" formal was held at the Chermot on February 19.

THETA PHI DELTA

THE THETA PHI DELTA fraternity was organized in 1915. The colors are purple, white, and gold. These colors are carried out in the pledge pin which is diamond-shaped, half white and half purple with gold edges.

The active chapter has taken an important part in campus politics. The first semester Carson Rogers was president of the Pan-Hellenic Council. The presidents of the freshman and junior classes are Stuart Sadler and Wade Knapp, respectively. Francis Nelson was the editor of the Gateway the first semester. John Kozak is on the Board of Publications, is the business manager of the Tomahawk, the senior representative on the Student Council, and secretary-treasurer of the "O" Club. At the Homecoming Banquet, the fraternity was awarded the alumni banner for the largest number present. Frank Spangler was voted the "Campus Sweetheart" at the W.A.A. "Sweetheart Swing."

The outstanding social events were the pledge dance held November 25 at Jacobs Hall, and the spring formal dance at Peony Park on March 12.

There's plenty of fun if you look for it
And plenty of joy in the finding;
And if we forget our books a bit,
There's no one would be minding.

A party, a dance, an evening of fun
We'll gladly enjoy if we may.
'Tis much too soon this little life is done;
But still there's plenty of time for play.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THROUGH THE WEARY DAYS of the site controversy, the Student Council cheerfully circulated petitions, bolstered up the enthusiasm of the student body, and held meetings to explain the situation and promote the site cause. Back of all this was Betty Majors, the president of the Student Council, and her assisting officers, Irene Tinkham, vice-president, and Harriet Salmon, secretary-treasurer.

Among the convocations that the Council sponsored were a talk by Dr. Lyman Harris on his tour of England, dramatic readings by the German lecturer, Paul Dietz, and a formal presentation of a plaque to the university commemorating the five hundred fiftieth anniversary of Heidelberg by Dr. V. Royce West. President Rowland Haynes spoke once each semester, and Dr. Homer Anderson addressed an assembly on "This Business of Education."

Amy Rohacek, Ellen Hartman, Betty Majors, Carson Rogers, Harold Johnk, Francis Nelson, and Macy Baum were chosen to represent the university in the Who's Who for university and college students in the United States.

Ma-ie Day and Homecoming were successfully handled under the supervision of the committees selected by the Council.

MA-IE DAY

PRINCESS ATTIRA II, Elaine Coulter, reigned for a day 'midst much activity and festivity on May 14, 1936. The day began officially at Peony Park at four-thirty p.m. with an interfraternity sing in which the sororities and fraternities competed in presenting their group songs. Later in the afternoon the selection of Elaine Coulter as princess was revealed. Other candidates, nominated by the sororities, were Dorothy Anderson, Sigma Chi Omicron; Betty Fellman, Alpha Gamma Chi; Patricia Bush, Kappa Psi Delta; and Maxine Steincamp, Pi Omega Pi. Following the presentation of the Ma-ie Princess, Dr. Lyman H. Harris announced awards to outstanding seniors.

Fifteen skits, including numerous dramas and dances were featured at the vaudeville show which was presented following a box supper. Native Hawaiian songs and dances were presented by Jack Kaaua, Sam Reimann, and Steve Harper. The hit of the show was the Alpha Gamma Chi burlesque of a burlesque show. "The Fleet's In," a song and dance number with a nautical theme, was given by the Pi Omega Pi's, while the Sigma Chi Omicron act included a trio, chorus, and a novelty dance number by Evelyn Clough and Edward Ferrell. The Gamma act was a burlesque on the story of Captain John Smith and Pocahontas in Negro dialect, while the Kappas did a dance number based on nursery rhymes.

The final event of the Festival was a dance, with Jack Swanson's orchestra playing. Members of the Ma-ie Day committee were Howard Sorenson, Virginia Lee Long, Leo Pearey, Macy Baum, Jane Cook, and Dr. Lyman H. Harris, faculty sponsor.

Plans for the 1937 Ma-ie Day celebration, to be held May 21 at Peony Park, follow closely those of last year. Accordingly, there is to be an interfraternity sing, a floor show, the naming of outstanding seniors, the crowning of Princess Attira III, and a dance. The committee chosen by the Student Council includes Bess Greer Shoecraft, senior; Ed Kersenbrock, junior; Harold Sorenson, sophomore; and Jimmy Smith, freshman.

HOMECOMING DAY

FOLLOWING THE PRECEDENT set last year for a Homecoming in the Indian tradition, the Student Council sponsored the event again this year on October 16, 1936.

The formal presentation of Ellen Hartman in her Indian garb as the students' choice began the day's festivities. Ellen is a member of Phi Delta Psi sorority and president of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity. She also belongs to the German Club and the International Relations Club. Last year's Tomahawk was edited under her direction, as was the Gateway for the first semester.

Preceding a long stream of decorated cars and colorful floats, the princess and her braves led the parade, which started at the campus, through the downtown section of Omaha and back to the university. The downfall of the football opponents of the day and the victory of the Omaha Cardinals were the themes depicted by the floats. Alpha Sigma Lambda carried away the honor of preparing the best float. Macy Baum was chairman of the parade committee.

At two p.m. the football game at the university field at 30th and Wirt Streets with the South Dakota Jackrabbits started 'midst exuberant yells for a sweeping victory. Until the finish of the game the student body was still demanding a win, but the game ended in a 0-0 tie despite the encouragement given the team.

That evening the campus was again the scene of much activity as the students, faculty, regents, and alumni gathered for a banquet in Jacobs Hall. Each Greek organization and the Barbs had individual tables. Speakers included Macy Baum, toastmaster; H. A. Jacobberger, board of regents; S. L. Witman, faculty; Frank Heinisch, alumni; Betty Malm, freshmen; Leonard Kurtz, sophomores; Wade Knapp, juniors; and Amy Rohacek, seniors. Homecoming ended with a dance at Jacobs Hall following the banquet.

TOMAHAWK STAFF

BECAUSE MOST of last year's annual was completed before a name was chosen, this is the first time the theme suggested by the name has actually been used. As in the last Tomahawk, however, the book itself is not devoted to seniors alone, but to the entire student body, presenting a composite picture of all campus activities.

As with a number of other campus organizations, such as the Student Council, the Gateway, and the Senior Class, a girl, Ruth Grenville, was selected to edit the 1937 Tomahawk. Her staff includes Marjorie Disbrow, Lucille Hurlbut, Kathryn Johnson, Lloyd Lee, John Kozak, Ellen Corzine, George Threadgill, Agneta Jensen, Ardith Hudson, Howard Greenwald, Marjorie Noe, Mary Jane Davisson, Mary Harkness, and Enid Crowder.

The Tomahawk feels that it has shared in the progress which the university has made during the year for it has set precedents for future Tomahawks in the use of its name for a theme and in the name itself. It has also helped to further the dream of the Board of Publications that a yearbook might become a tradition of the school. Long live the Tomahawk!

THE GATEWAY has had a dual personality this year under Francis Nelson, editor for the first semester, and Ruth Behrmann, editor for the second semester. The latter substituted other columns and feature stories for "The Keyhole." This gave rise to a publication edited by Warren Novak, The Kandid Keyhole, pictorially depicting campus activities.

Staff members included Mary Jane Davisson, Kurt Sick, Maurice Klain, and Gerald Claudius as associate editors; George Threadgill, sports editor; Keith Maxwell, assisted by Howard Greenwald, was business manager.

Reporters for the second semester included Helen Saltares, George Unruh, Adeline Speckter, Celia Lipsman, Joan Benson, Stewart Jones, Louis Diamantis, Frank Norall, Howard Winholtz, Lillian Monovitz, Kenneth Scholes, Mary Harkness, Marjorie Disbrow, Louise Fore, Jack Pike, Nathan Wolfson, Cecelia Hopp, Virginia Phelps, Ruth Finer, Esther Steinberg, Esther Klaiman, and Harriet Betterton.

THE UNIVERSITY DRAMA CLUB, organized March 17, fosters monthly meetings featuring professional dramatists and accounts of their experiences in the "big-time" mummern's field.

The year's dramatic productions will compete with each other for the honor of being presented as the dramatic department's best offering of the season at the last meeting in May. Among the plays produced were "Undercurrent," "The Toy Heart," "Harmony," and "Their Husbands."

Phyllis Bauman, president of the organization, is aided by Betty Arnold, vice-president; George Stearns, secretary; and Jane Vincent, treasurer. The club was organized by Bess Greer Shoecraft, assistant in the dramatics department, and is sponsored by Dr. Gilbert James and Mrs. Jean Jarmin.

Each member of the newly organized play producing class, under Mrs. Jarmin, produced three plays. Included in this advanced group are Hazel Willard, George Stearns, Fred Plette, Amy Rohacek, Bess Greer Shoecraft, and Jane Vincent.

PROGRAMS FEATURING original written work of members, alternated with special speakers and discussions, formed the nucleus of an active year's work by the local Kappa Gamma chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity.

An appreciation and knowledge of poetry has been stressed by the club this year, and March 16, Miss Helene Magaret, Omaha poetess praised by critics, addressed the fraternity on the "Importance of Poetry."

The Omaha chapter, founded in 1931, is headed by Ellen Hartman, president; James Peterson, vice-president; Eola Lieben, secretary; Irma Shepherd, treasurer; Lucille Hurlbut, program chairman; and Mary Harkness, editor of the Little Grub.

GAMMA PI SIGMA

SMELLING LABS, flaming Bunsen burners, highly explosive bits of chemicals have been the baptism of fire for our scientific minds. Gamma Pi Sigma, national honorary chemistry fraternity, gives just recognition to students who have qualified through their work for the society's award.

In the local Alpha chapter, honor points were awarded to Ethel Adler, Herbert Hildebrand, Ralph Kline, Prentice Wendland, John Zitnik, James Britton, Ray King, Clitus Olson, Harold Thompson, John Nelson, Vance Senter, Bill Holland, and Ermagrace Reilly. They work quietly at Science Hall, content with such minor explosions as may occur in their own test-tubes. But these students, sponsored by Miss Nell Ward, are sure someday to explode into the world to the glory of the school.

Major events sponsored by this group included their annual banquet February 12 at the Elks Club with Dr. George Coleman, professor of Chemistry at Iowa State University, Ames. The annual chemistry spelldown was held the latter part of May. Miss Norma Ellingwood served as president.

FEATHERS

THE FEATHERS have floated through the year by promoting the school's athletic activities. The breezes behind the Feathers were Ruth Grenville, president; Lillian Damask, vice-president; Ardith Hudson, secretary; and Betty Minter, treasurer.

An official emblem, an "O" of cardinal felt with a feather placed diagonally through it, was adopted at the beginning of the year to be worn with the costumes of black skirts, white shirts, and red sweaters.

Fortune telling, fish ponds, bingo and dart games, and a floor show entertained the students at the carnival held November 13, where Ruth Grenville and Noel King reigned as Queen and King. To holders of lucky numbers of five-cent tickets sold two weeks before the carnival, prizes were awarded. Virginia Lee Long, Lillian Damask, and Ruth Grenville were in charge, and the "O" Club assisted.

In addition to rooting in a body at the football and basketball games, the Feathers ushered at the Joslyn Memorial for the Orchesis recital. The group traveled to Sioux City in October to lend their support to the football team.

"O" CLUB

THESE ARE the red-sweatered lads who dot the campus, adding romance, glamour, and "umph" to 24th and Pratt streets and immediate vicinity. The red-hued accoutrements are the boys' just rewards for their spirit and give-it-all-you-got-ness in the year's athletic encounters. Football, of course, isn't the only sport in which these men strive for the honored circle. Basketball and track in their seasons have their devotees who add to the ranks of the "O" Club.

During the past year, monthly meetings at the women's faculty building, followed by luncheons, were inaugurated. The members also assisted the Feathers with the annual fall Feathers' carnival. The most important event of the year is their dance, at which an "O" Club sweetheart is elected and presented a letter sweater and a season pass to all the athletic events. The brawny officers that rule with a muscular hand are Norman Sorenson, president; Harold Johnk, vice-president; John Kozak, secretary-treasurer; and Melvin Boldenow, sergeant-at-arms.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

AFTER A YEAR'S DORMANCY, the Alpha Theta chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity, became active on the campus this year. To carry on an interest in scouting and to promote projects of service to the university and to the Boy Scouts of Omaha are their main aims.

The organization celebrated the Boy Scout anniversary by having all the male students on the campus, who were formerly scouts or at present active members, register. One hundred and fifty-nine boys took advantage of this and registered.

Omaha University's chapter of Alpha Phi Omega was organized under Professor Irwin A. Hammer in 1932. The officers for the past year have been Elbert Hoisington, president; George Alexander, secretary; and Edward Carlson, treasurer. Dean L. M. Bradfield, Mr. J. E. Woods, Mr. John Baker, and Dr. L. R. Dawson have acted as the club's sponsors.

PRE-MED AND CHEMISTRY CLUBS

IN ORDER TO GIVE those who plan to enter the medical profession the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the ideals and the problems that will confront them, the Pre-Med Club planned its year to fulfill this purpose. Supervising and conducting the organization's business were Miss Nell Ward, sponsor; Robert Stowe, president; Jack Bittner, vice-president; and Beth Campbell, secretary. A banquet on November 20, with Dr. C. W. M. Poynter, dean of University of Nebraska College of Medicine, as speaker, was the outstanding event of the year. Dr. Poynter's topic was "Modern Drifts of Medical Education."

Also striving to prepare students for future occupations, the Chemistry Club met bi-monthly at Science Hall to hear speakers from various chemical fields. The importance that chemistry has in industry was demonstrated by visits to laboratories and industries. Officers for the year were Ralph Kline, president; Ed Smith, vice-president; Clitus Olson, secretary; and Miss Nell Ward, sponsor.

DEBATE

DEBATERS AT OMAHA UNIVERSITY not only wander through Webster's dictionary but also all over the middle western states. The winter tournament at Midland College, Fremont, was the first stop on the debaters' itinerary.

Two teams, comprised of Enid Crowder and Lucille Hurlbut, Macy Baum and Maurice Klain, won nine out of ten contests to capture first place in the annual forensic tournament sponsored by the Maryville, Missouri, State Teachers College.

The wandering debaters made their way to Denver to the Rocky Mountain Speech Conference with D. E. Heckman, coach. The women's team won the only decision debate that they had, and the men's team lost one of their four debates to the University of Southern California team, the champions of the tournament. After the tournament the women's team went to Greeley, Colorado, to meet the Colorado State Teachers College team; and then on to Hastings, Nebraska, for another debate. The debaters placed second in the state tournament.

The subject this year has been: "Resolved; that Congress should be empowered to fix maximum hours and minimum wages for industry."

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE W.A.A. BEGAN ITS YEAR with a masquerade Halloween party on October 27th. Prizes for the best, funniest, and prettiest costumes were given, and a chamber of horrors, games, dancing, and refreshments took up the time for the remainder of the evening.

The soccer season was ended this year by a game between the junior and the sophomore teams at Kountze Park. Following the game a "Soccer Feed" was given at the Women's Faculty building with a theme of boxing carried out in at tumn colors and program and paper miniature boxing-glove menus.

Shuffleboard and badminton in mixed groups proved to be a very popular sport. The games were played during the noon hour and the champions were Bunny Ashwood and Jack Maloney. Volleyball, both inter-sorority and mixed variety, occupied the noon hours for two weeks during the month of January. The Pi O's were winners of the inter-sorority tournament and Team No. 1 won the mixed tournament.

Two of the most novel dances of the year were promoted by the Women's Athletic Association. The "Political Prom," directed by Amy Rohacek, was the first mixer of the year, held October 2 in Jacobs Hall. As each guest entered the floor he cast a vote for president and received an emblem of his party. At the "Sweetheart Swing," a vice-versa, Frank Spangler, Theta Phi Delta, was the co-eds' choice for sweetheart.

The second annual Charm School, featuring a series of three lectures, a style show, and a musical and dancing program, was held March 11 and 12. Dr. Paul Tipton spoke on "Diet and Figure," Dr. Wilfred Payne on "Get Your Man," and a representative of the Brandeis Store on "Individual Make-up and Hairdress," opening the school. Models for the fashion show included Delores Carlson, Sigma Chi Omicron; Ellen Corzine, Phi Delta Psi; Mary Alice Nelson and Kathryn Davis, Pi Omega Pi; Pauline Rosenbaum, Alpha Gamma Chi; Ruth Kassal, Kappa Psi Delta; Mary Scott, Gamma Sigma Omicron; and Ruth Thompson and Bette Woods, Barbs. Musical background was provided by Fred Dempster, 'cello; Florence Steinberg, violin; and Esther Steinberg, piano. Dorothy Twiss did a novelty tap dance, and Madalyn Triplett and Lois Burnett played an accordion duet. Amy Rohacek was in charge of arrangements, while Ruth Kassal, Phyllis Knudsen, and Madalyn Triplett assisted.

The W.A.A. closed its year by sponsoring a statewide convention, April 30-May 1, for women's athletic organizations from twelve state universities and colleges of Nebraska. Phyllis Knudsen presided and the W.A.A. Board members acted as hostesses. A luncheon, a general assembly, a panel meeting, a tea, and a banquet filled the program; and on the following day a breakfast, another luncheon, and a general assembly brought to a close the first W.A.A. statewide convention and a successful year.

ORCHESIS

THOSE MEMBERS of the creative dancing classes who wish to develop further aptitude in that field meet once a week with Miss Ruth Diamond for Orchesis. During the first semester of the school year, this class was divided into two groups, one the concert dancers and the other the regular dancers. Members of the concert group, with Miss Diamond and Miss Betty Fellman, piano accompanist, attended the South Dakota Physical Education Convention at the Northern Normal and Industrial School at Aberdeen, South Dakota, in November, where they presented a dance symposium.

The concert group, assisted by the advanced and beginning dancing classes, were featured at the Joslyn Memorial at its open house, January 15. Numbers included in the recital were Salutation, Folk Rhythm, Eccossais, Country Dance, The Band, Walks in the Rain, Jazz Idiom, Suite, Conflict, Green Table, Mechanization, Rhapsody in Blue, and Opposition. The closing dance, Chorale, was a Hymn of Praise done in processional style, with Miss Diamond as soloist.

To demonstrate the fundamentals taught in the classes, a demonstration was given for a Humanities lecture. Miss Betty Fellman has been of great assistance to the dancers, for it is she who has made possible some of the interpretations with her arrangements and original compositions for the piano.

Just as the group itself has changed from a small group to a large one, so has the dancing itself changed from that type of dancing influenced by the Greek friezes to dancing that is interpretative and which distorts familiar and common motions of the body. As a dance is composed, the music is composed along with it, or a dance is composed to fit a piece of music that has already been written.

The spring concert presented by the members of Orchesis and the dancing classes was based on the circular motif. The dances presented were comprised of whirls, pendulum swings, circular movements of the arms, and many other movements having the round motion. "Row, row, row your boat," the round, was interpreted into a dance by the Orchesis group, and the finale, which consisted of varying circles, was danced by the ensemble.

These individuals, who seek knowledge only for the good which they may achieve by dispensing it, elected Bess Greer Shoecraft as their president. Marjorie Williams was chosen vice-president; Betty Minter, secretary; Francis Johnson, treasurer; and Janis Johnston and Anna Goodbinder, sergeants-at-arms.

Members of the club, whose purpose is to establish a contact between alumni and those connected with the school system, practice their future profession, teaching, in various city schools.

An active program committee consists of Edward Scouten, chairman; Ed Nell Benson, Roger Hughes, and James Peterson. The fraternity is sponsored by Misses Frances Wood and Elizabeth Kaho, and Dr. Leslie O. Taylor.

★Some folks call it "the jitters." Some call it "traffic nerves." But whatever the name, the result of driving or walking in modern traffic congestion is much the same.

Avoid the nervous strain of traffic by sitting comfortably in a street car, and letting the motorman do the work. For safety, dependability and economy, travel by street cars!

Dependability . . .

PRINTING is more than a manufacturing business—it often involves counseling with the prospect or customer regarding the particular problems to make the individual printed piece render the greatest possible service to the buyer.

We believe you will find our policy of dependable service from the inception or creation of the idea to the delivery of the job a profitable thing to you.
